

H. Finley Helms, D. D. S.

Suite 19, Burr Block

Lincoln, Neb.

LILLIAN DOBBS HELMS

Soprano

LINCOLN, NEBR.

"THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT."

Mother Goose, the leading part and a difficult one was sung by Mrs. Helms. She delighted her friends and satisfied all who knew her capabilities.

LINCOLN DAILY STAR.
October 21, 1903

"The Neglected Mrs. Pepper"

Lillian Dobbs Helms was in her element, always natural and unaffected. The little favorite scored heavily with an audience perfectly familiar with her artistic methods, and always glad to see and greet her.

THE NEBRASKA STATE JOURNAL.

"TRIAL BY JURY."

She was so sweet and charming she captured not only the hearts of judge and jury but every one else.

LINCOLN DAILY STAR.
May 18, 1904

"THE JEWELL MAIDEN."

Mrs. Helms as jewell maiden was exquisitely dainty in the roll and sang bewitchingly.

LINCOLN DAILY STAR.

Lillian Dobbs Helms occupied for some time the position of leading soprano in the First Presbyterian church of Lincoln, Neb. Among the congregation are many well trained musicians and musical critics. It is sufficient commendation of Mrs. Helms' work to say that it was eminently satisfactory to all. Her singing is especially marked by the conscientiousness and the intelligence necessary to effective musical interpreting qualities without which mere "voice" is but an indifferent gift.

H. C. SWEARINGEN,
Pastor First Presbyterian Church.

I most cheerfully recommend Mrs. Lillian Dobbs Helms, a refined and cultured lady, who gave entire satisfaction to the congregation of St. Theresa's Pro Cathedral when she was leading lady singer in the choir. Her voice was of a pleasing and sweet quality. In her concert work for the church she merited the high praise of the musical critics of the public press.

J. M. J. READE,
Late Rector St. Theresa's Pro Cathedral.

