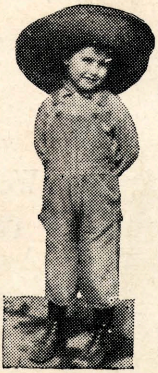
Nebraska's Great Constructive Charity



Just homeless but ready for an invitation

If this boy came to your door ragged and cold and a hungry, you would undoubtedly take him in. You would not let him go away hungry. But his heart, along with many others, is hungry for "a Mother and a Dad"—a pitiful hunger. Will you let him go away without a home?

Say, mister! I would like to have a home,
'Cause I ain't got a mother or a dad.
They left me just a kid alone to roam—
A homeless, lonely sort of little lad.

Just now I'm in a sort of cheerful place
Where I'm to stay until I find a dad.
O, yes! there's room for us to wash our face,
And so much soap it makes us almost sad.

But there's one thing about this home that's wrong—
That you, with trusty cash, could soon defy.
I know that you will stretch your purse a bit,
So turn the page—the trouble therein lies.

Each of us Needs a Home to Grow Up in. It's Crowded Here and—

We Can Make Good on the Farm

It's Your Chance and Ours

The Point is:

If homeless and neglected children are to become clean, useful citizens, someone must get behind them during their childhood.

When parents fail in their duty, or death robs a child of the care it should have, someone must supply it. It is far wiser and less expensive than to let them become ne'er-do-wells or criminals.

By finding good homes for these children and seeing to it that they have a fair chance, the Nebraska Children's Home Society is performing this great service.
